

GIARDINA AND MAURI MACCHINE: TOGETHER, LOOKING AT THE FUTURE

The press conference organized during last Xylexpo was a way to underline the ever growing integration between the two brands.

Giardina Finishing and Mauri Macchine: two brands, one global point of reference for everything related to the treatment of surfaces. A history of skills, experience, research and innovation together that has lasted for over forty years; four decades marked by constant commitment in the development and manufacturing of high-tech solutions, machines and systems designed – together with the client, with those who have to work every day with those technologies – to provide the best possible solution, whether it be a line of great complexity or the most basic machine.

This is what came out from the press conference held during Xylexpo where the protagonist has been the common thread of these forty years of history. We are talking about Giampiero Mauri, President Mauri Macchine and Giardina Finishing, who did the honors. Firm believer that the success of a company is measured by its being a worldwide landmark in technology. A vision that allowed him – together with his partners – to achieve prestigious objectives. First of all, to revive the brand Giardina Finishing, synonymous with excellence since the seventies, market leader, also with technical excellence and attention to the needs of its customers.

A strong synergy, through which the two companies can now propose together to the world markets the most comprehensive range of solutions for the finishing and painting, a wealth of technology that no one else can match.

Giardina Finishing has forty years of experience in coating solutions in the fields of wood, glass, plastic, metal and composite: application by spray, roller, curtain coater, vacuum and much more.

The drying and curing techniques have always been a highlight of Giardina Finishing, a pioneer in Uv curing technology, since the seventies, and a leader in the process of drying of water-based paints with the "Mos" technology and, for some years now, with a brand-new integrated technology "application-Uv drying", called "Gst Inerplus", which allows to apply new coating systems by which to achieve high quality standards, excellent "High Gloss" in finishing.

Mauri Macchine complements the proposals by Giardina Finishing, strong of its forty years of experience in the wood field, offering a unique expertise in systems for the coating of profiles in general. For over ten years they have developed solutions for robotic spray painting for small batches – "customer order" products – in anticipation of a few years on the demands of a market that is increasingly driven by the "just in time" concept: the ever customized, special customization, the effective and efficient management of increasingly small lots.

A journey that has seen Mauri Macchine particularly proactive in terms of complete plants for the treatment of laminated wood, which is increasingly widespread in the building industry, where the word "bio-sustainability" is gaining in importance.

The high capacity of Mauri Macchine in developing and implementing complex solutions for the handling and manipulation of the artifacts has allowed Giardina Finishing to offer to customers around the world important complete finishing solutions, leveraging the resources and capabilities within the group, ensuring maximum reliability and – above all – serving as a single point of contact, offering know-how, technology, pre-and post-sales.

Crucial in this process of constant growth is the steady relationship with the major paint manufacturers and complementary industries around the world, because only by working together it is possible to interpret the needs of a customer and offer them exactly what they expect as an end result of the painting process they have chosen.

"Reliability, productivity, quality and flexibility."

These are the buzzwords that have always characterized the work of our group," said Giampiero Mauri. "These are the principles that have allowed us to get to be the leading company in the process of finishing around the world. Today – continued Mauri – we rely on the work of 72 employees for a total turnover of 15 million euro, of which over 90 per cent achieved thanks to exports. This is the business card of Giardina Finishing and Mauri Macchine, two realities that - together - represent Italian excellence in the field of painting and finishing".

A record that is also supported through participation in the most important international exhibitions, a presence necessary to emphasize constantly the active and consistent involvement in all markets relevant for the group.

CASADEI INDUSTRIA
TWENTY YEARS OF INNOVATION

In 1994 Sergio Muratori founded Casadei Industria with the "mission" to conceive and manufacture a range of automatic edge banding machines for the artisan and for the small industry, but we can say that the origin of the relationship with the wood-working field and its technology dates back to 1947, when Giovanni Casadei founded "Casadei Macchine". 67 years of fascinating history in the production of technologies. In 1965 Sergio Muratori married Carla, daughter of Giovanni and in 1994, together with their children Andrea and Antonio, founded Casadei Industria srl. The company has led its way through three generations and still today is one of the leading manufacturers for edge banders and vertical machining centers, refining and continuously increasing their natural vocation towards the innovation. A vocation expressed in the production of automatic edge banders for the artisan and small industries and vertical machining centers for wood and now also for the aluminum field, composite and all non-wood material.

The production is made in two separate buildings in the Republic of San Marino (an overall surface of 5,000 sqm.), with 70 employees to develop innovative projects which meet the increasing approval and success on the international markets. Casadei Industria faces difficult market scenarios, with an experience positive, exciting, built thanks to its staff, that shared and also now daily shares the vision of the founder, and to its partners and customers, who have placed their confidence in the project.
